

Secure, auditable file sharing everywhere it counts

To grow and sustain profitability in an era of low interest rates and disruptive competitors, you need new revenue sources and innovative ways to cut costs. Technology can be the catalyst to success in financial services. But your indelible link to the economy also means you're a prime target for cyber attacks, organized crime and hacktivist groups. Which is why you're required to comply with a growing list of data security and risk management regulations.

What if one simple file-sharing solution could give you the power to effortlessly and securely share protected information—with the mandated audit trail?

Any file, any size.

Anywhere.

Anyone.

SharePlan protects confidential information and lets you leverage it strategically.

Keeps you in control and in the know

To stay in compliance, you need eyes on every confidential information exchange. From research shared with top clients, to portfolio performance stats shared among the C-suite, to the quarterly packages for board members, SharePlan makes it possible. Users can control who can access which files, whether they can view or edit and for how long. While the IT admin has real-time visibility into who's sharing and syncing what information on which devices.

Gives you access where and when you need it

The old boundaries of "work" no longer apply. Your staff is writing proposals at midnight, reviewing mortgage reports between flights and sharing M&A strategies from their tablets. SharePlan works like that, too—securely. It lets users easily access, save, send and receive files—on any device, regardless of operating system—that are automatically synced and protected with AES 256-bit encryption both in flight and at rest. Users get the simple Dropbox-like functionality they love and you get the ironclad protection you need.

Removes format and size restraints

With SharePlan, there are no limits on file format or size. So now you can share that office park loan document and its 100 appraisals with the lawyers, or have a corporate client share a 30,000-image X9.37 file—quickly and securely.

Protects your intellectual property

Your IP is critical to success in a competitive industry. Keep it protected with SharePlan. Not only does SharePlan give you visibility into all user activity, it gives you control of endpoint data, so you can remotely wipe devices to prevent information from going rogue once permissions end.

IN SUMMARY

To be successful in today's competitive, highly regulated financial services industry, you need to share information quickly without sacrificing security. SharePlan enterprise file sync and share is a secure, easy-to-use program that combines enterprise-grade performance with consumer-driven simplicity. Your workforce can leverage data to get ahead while meeting your data privacy and security obligations.
